The audience of fish-tailed kids emits a he rty cheer As both the Bird Boys nearly dip and quic dy disappear.
"Well done!" the merkids all pronounce, hit one there is to scorn.

"Now just watch me!" he warn the rest, to sudden action spurred.

He next assumes a lofty pose, which strikes them as absurd.

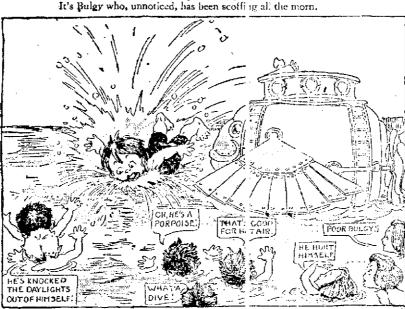

"Is it to be a somersault?" asks Bill, with secret dread,

The merkids jeer, their pati nee up. No longer may he pause,

So Bulov shuts his eves and flors, amid some weak "hurrahs."

Kersplash! He sprawls against the sea as if it were a floor, Then down his windpipe sundry quarts of aqua mura pour. The water gurgles through his ears, which is a lucky thing, For each remark that's passed around would surely leave a sting.

On shore at last the bunch converes to settle their fatigue. From Bulgy's splash the sea has boiled and lashed for 'most a league. The Bird Boys carry him to land and gently set him down, And wonder why the portly lad must always play the clown.

OLD OPIE DILLDOCK'S STORIES

Well, here it is the first of M iy and everybody is moving. It all brings back to me the time when I visited High Altitude Tudors at his home in the Rockies. Tudors hal his home built on a high cliff, and Mrs. T. objected to walking up and down everal thousand stairs in order to visit the neighbors. So Tudy called the in to solve the problem.

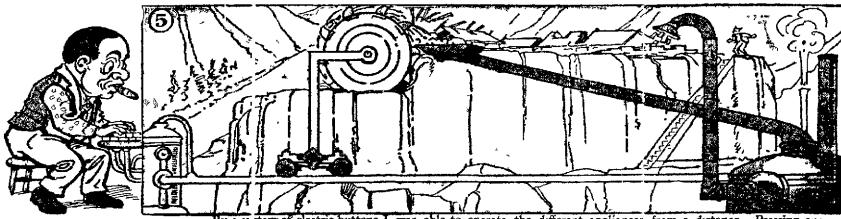

Said I: "Tudy, I've got it is the thing in my machine shop that will turn the trick. I've been working on it for many years, and I'll bring your home down to earth in a juffy. But, Tudy," I added (for this patent tearing down and building machine of mine was not yet patented, and, while I trusted Tudors, I wanted to be on the safe side), "you've got to stay away from my shop"

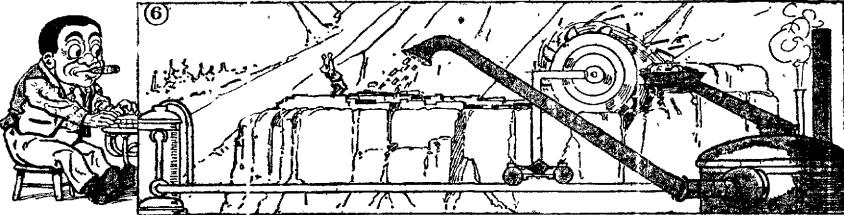

The prospect of having his herre brought down to where Mrs. Tuders would be satisfied (and the lettle Tudys, too, kicked somewhat over climping those great flights of tairs) to kied Tudors so mightily that he readily consented to stay away and let me do the work unhampered by his presence. But his comosity get the better of him and he just couldn't stay away.

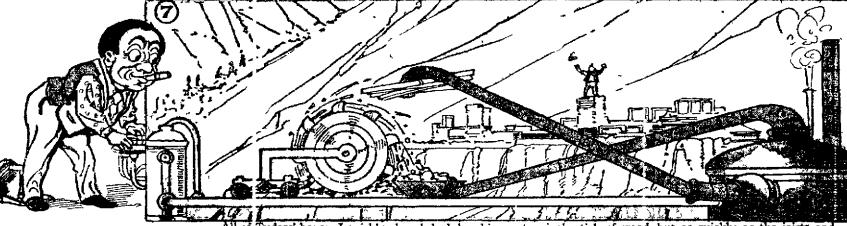

However, I was too busy to reprimind him for breaking faith with me, and while I tested the different parts of my huge much ne Tudy wendered about the shop highly excited, and succeeded in tangling himself to up belt-straps, flywheels, and other debris which littered the floor. I hurried things through, and in a short time had the decks cleared for action.

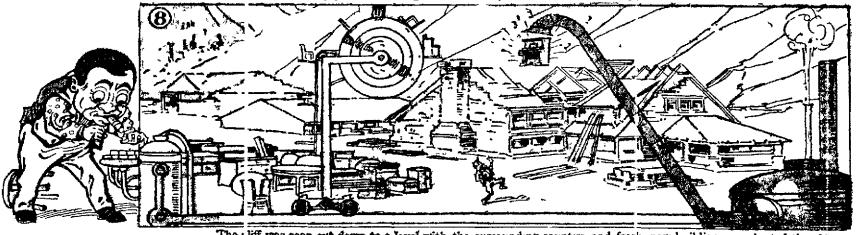

By a system of electric buttons I was able to operate the different appliances from a distance. Pressing one general key, I set the whole machine in motion. On a long steel runway two guide wheels, fastened to a high shaft surmounted by a revolving excavating machine, ran smoothly and noiselessly back and forth, the carriers as they dug the clay throwing t into a chate which carried it to a huge kiln, where it was in turn automatically shaped and baked into bricks. You an readily understand from this slight description what a really wonderful machine I had builded.

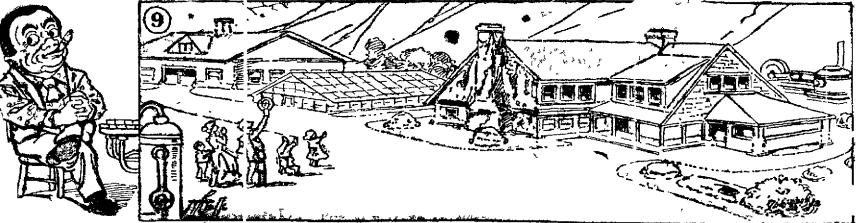

More winderful still than any of the other things I have mentioned was the almost humanlike precision with which these bricks, when molded and baked, were carried to a flexible suction tube, which, by the simple pressing of a button, could be reversed and made to throw out bricks and mortar. Not alone did the machine do this, but it likewise reached over the top of a rapidly diminishing mountain on which Tudors' house and barns, and chicken coops and things stood, and laid the bricks as skillfully and with far greater dispatch than could a high salaried bricklayer.

All of Tudors' houses I quickly demolished, breaking not a single stick of woo i, but as quickly as the joists and beams were picked up by the suction tube they were carried to the kiln and there, by the pressing of another button, the kiln being trunsformed into a veritable sawmill, were returned and shaped in such sizes as to meet the requirements of the reconstruction plans. The cliff was disappearing as if by magic, and Tudy, far away on the brow of his hill, was running about frantic with joy, and throwing his arms wildly in air in enthusiastic approval.

The liff was soon cut down to a level with the surrounding country, and fresh, new buildings supplanted the old-time structures which had marked High Attitude Tudors' abiding place. Before building the roofs on the houses I pressed another button and the boom swing this way and that picking up Mrs. I's household effects—the piano, the rocking chairs, and other furniture—and gently depositing them where Mrs. Tudors' critical eye thought they would show to the best: dvantage in their new quarters. My modesty prevented me from permitting a look of keen satisfaction to show on my features.

At last the roofs were constructed, I stopped the whirling machinery and sat brok to look upon the fruits of my efforts. The great stairways had entirely disappeared as had also the 7,000 foot cliff up which they formerly had wound, and there in front of me stretched beautiful lawns and terraces upon which in majestic grandeur stood a grand residence, a barn of stat by dimensions, and a hothouse which was indeed a marvel to behold "O, how can I ever thank you!" cried Mrs. Tut ors, and doffing my hat I said: "Tis a small thing to do for such a magnificent woman, Mrs. Tudors." And then I to need with the little Tudors.

MAYOR M'CARTHY WARNS SAN FRANCISCO PEOPLE OF PLOT HATCHED, HE SAYS, FOR DISCREDITING BOTH HE AND HIS ADMINISTRATION, SO AS TO WORK UP A RECALL

TO BE DONE WHILE HE IS IN WASHINGTON ATTENDING TO HIS CALL OF DUTY IN HETCH-HETCHY PROPOSITION

Will keep in Touch With Every Phase of Local diese and dient arrived in Liceoln today direct from New Orleans at which port is had landed from Jamaier. The following the Conditions Day and Night to Give His Enemies a Lesson

The following statement was issued to the public yesterday in San Francisco by Mayor P. I McCarthy

SAN FRANCISCO, APRIL 30, 1910 .- TO THE PEO-PLE OF SAN FRANCISCO -- "Upon the eve of my departure for Washington, D C, where I am obliged to go in behalf both of the Panama Exposition project for 1915 and the Hetch-Hetchy water proposition, I am placed in possession of information, the accuracy of which I cannot doubt, to the effect that as soon as my back is urned and I have crossed the border line of this State the two lve-incl guns of the Examiner, under the trained eye of M W R Hearst, are to bombard my astral body. The cause of labor which I represent, the Union Labor administration, and thing s general in San Francisco, under the present Hearst clan which chara terize that publisher's method of fighting men whom he cannot dictate to or control, a public sentiment is to be involed against me. Fake mass meetings and street parades are to be encouraged, and a general hubbub raised with the feeble aic of the Bulletin, as well as that of that frenzied king of finance, Isadore Jacobs All this I know and in the face of this I star" upon my journey just the same.

"Before starting, hovrever, I wish to get on record as informing the people just what the enemies of Union Labor and the professional trouble makers of the city propose doing. The aim of these clumsy plotters is to discredit me and my administration while my back is turned, create dissension if they can, and work up a recall if possible. I await the outcome of this underground campaign vith kee i interest.

"I am answering a double call of duty when I proceed to Washington to lend whatever efforts I may be able to contribute toward the success of the Panama-Pacific Exposition project and the safeguarding of San Francisco's water rights in the Hetch Hetchy valey. I leave the management of the the city in safe and honest han is, and I am quite willing to have Mr. Hearst of New York, or any lesser knave in the field of journalism attempt to ruin my administration and the sacred cause of labor while I at a gone

"I am content to let he everlasting detractors who see no good in any man and who prate of evils that do not exist try their strength with the stirling men and women to whom I owe my election. I shall be 11 touch with every phase of local con ditions day and night an l I believe that an assault in the dark, such as I am now informed has been planned would prove a good lesson to those to v hom a lesson should be administered. and bring, perhaps, one step nester the coveted goal of peace

"Defamation and abu e have no chance with facts. I have previously offered to fur ush Mr Hearst of New York with a certified petition upon which he could try to accomplish my recall if he insists upon the pest and the offer holds good so long as I am Mayor V/ithout the slightest apprehension as to what my political en mies nay be able to accomplish in their work of gentle assassination. I go upon my double mission, happy, cheerful, conscien ious, fr e and ready for the future.

RACETRACK MONEY THAT WAS NOT MADE UP BY CLERGY

AN FRANCISCO, April 20.— Mark L. Gerstle, the millionaire lawyer, has a unique suggestion as to the site for the World's Fair in 1915. The suggestion is to hold it in Orkland or vicinity.

How would it do to offer to hold the big fair in Alameda county in case the cities of Ockland, Alameda and Berkeley agree to become part of San Francisco before 191 ?" said he. "We really are all one community. We have talked a great deal about a Greater San Francisco. We must offer some inducement for the transbay chies to join in making the greater city. Why not effer the inducement of the

"They have a better dimate over there than we have in San Francisco or anywhere near on the point of the peninsula. There are many sites over there that could be beautified to the limit of beautification. The site would be convenient for the mass of the population. San Franciscans would find a pleasant change

"So I think it is a metter worth considering. At least it is worth while to feel out Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley as to how they would like to join a Greater San Francisco under the agreement that if they come in the big fair will be held on their side of the bay."

Right on top of this suggestion Mayor Frank K. Mott subscribed $500 toward the fair fund.

Black Crows Coming Home to Roost.

There is a question that has puzzled those who only see politics rom the outside. Why is George Hatton, the friend and ad iser of Senator Perkins and Governor Gillett, outside the line of the Anderson camp-if not hostile, at least not friendly to the Anderson ambitions? The general theory is that Hatton and the Governor wanter John L. McNab of Ukiah for the Republican nominee, and that in consequence Hatton has no use for Anterson.

But to understand the real animus in this case it is necesssary to go tack a bit further-hack to the time when Louis Titus and the Berkeley boomers tried to move the capitol from Sa-ramento. When the measure to submit the removal to the people was passed by the Legislature the Sa ramentans were exceedingly wroth. They guashed their teeth and talked of revenge and reprisa...

One thing they proposed was that their Grand Tury should indict Hatton, Walter Parker and other organization leaders, who, they said, had assisted in passing the measure to get even on Sacramento for the poor vote given Gillett in the previous campaign.

It was a silly fort of a move. There was no real turpitude in any of the acts of the men moved against, Naturally those man reserted the effort to put a stig-

Well, Anderson was a chizen of Sacramento at that time, and it seems, it is claimed, he had home or less to do with that movement for indictments and revenge. As a consequence Hatton hasn't forgotten or forgiven.

Was It a Punishment?

The artists of San Francisco have been classifling over the burning of the Anherser-Busch brewery in St. Louis. They say it was a visitation of divine wrath, and all because the browers creeted a ficree electric sign on N 5 Hill.

The artists was too note of that hill a sort of acropolis, and think they have a fine start with the Fairmont, the Metrope Ban L. 'e building, the new Cathedral, the Pacific Union Command other buildings in contemplation. So when the heer sign went up it was considered a profamilion.

Some actists wanted to arganize a party and saw down the sign some w'r loblown night. They recalled the fact of that they well eye sure stand at the foot of California street. But though they hand a great deal and some they never would drick that beer, they deline hing is the way of violence or

Now, however, they are sure that big fire was a sign of the wrath of the sods, and they are praying that other calamities will infail the brevers quill they get that eyes orth er off the side of the samed fall, For some reason or other art and business do not zo hand in hand like art and beer.

The Two-Sidedness of Genius.

Elinor Glyn's tate, that Mark Twain had quite agreed with some of her more than spicy writings like "Three Weeks," and said he had written some things in the same vein hi uself, caused a gasp of horror among those who held that the author of Huckleberry Finn never had written anything a man could not read to his sister. But the old-timers who had worked with Clemens jus grinned.

chap that a man wouldn't read to his brother. These I drun up a cent for the hospital. Now the lady manwere for the privatest of private circulation and are only to be found in the choicest and most secluded collections. In these collections they are considered

The same was true of "the children's poet," Eugene Field, who penned some verses that would make a brick kiln blush. And these things merely show the dual natures of men of genius. The same man, who wrote the decadent immorality of Salome wrote "The Happy Prince" and "The Selfish Giant," two of the noblest things in all literature. Nearly all great writers have been two-sided, and it doesn't do to judge them entirely by a view of one side or the other.

Not Out of the Ordinary.

Paul Masson, the famous vigneron of San Jose, has a cynical humor all his own, and he mixes a lot of philosophy with it. Consequently he is much sought as a companion. He has recently turned his attention to the big rose festival in his town,

Sen Jose is making more than the customary preparation for that festival, and out of past experience is going to produce something worth traveling miles to see. The glory of the flowers and equipages will be enough to thrill the dullest heart.

"But," says Masson cynically, "you are advertising to the world that you can grow roses in May. All the world can grow roses in May. San Jose amazes not at all. Why not a rose carnival in February? Then you would hold the world at gaze."

When He Rang the Bell.

The automobile campaigns now making by the candillates for Governor remind me of the campaign four years ago when Langdon started the automobile business. There were many stops of that Langdon mach he and often there was no crowd to greet it. Stories by the dozens are told of the frolies and follies of that junket, but one of the best was of the meet-

The automobile stopped near a saloon, but no one from the party went in to buy a drink. The salcon man couldnt' see where anything was coming to him. His langers-on lounged out to see and hear, and no money was coming in over the bar. The saloon man fumed and fussed.

Then he called a boy, slipped him a quarter and gave him a bell. The orator was in the midst of his most fervent period when-dang-gang! gang-dang! dang-gang-bang! That boy and the bell went up and down. The orator paused. Then he tried again. Dang-hang-gang! It was no use. Stemor himself could not talk down that bell.

"Drive on," said the candidate, and the saloon man grinned as the laughing crowd came back to the saleon and began making business.

Where Is Her Grace?

It can be said of Maud Allan that no man has yet risen up to say that she is at all suggestive in her nakedness. There was a general disgust at Salome, but beyond that not even the most hardened rounder has said the sinuous woman roused any sentiment that could not be talked about in polite society.

But there is a great question as to where lies the girl's admitted grace. Those who see her are almost sure to admire, but when they come to analysis they one thing there is an agreement: She has not what is called a "good shape." Men and women join in saying that her feet are big and flat and her arms squar rather than round. And for all of that her grace makes women forget her lack of form and men her lock of drapery.

Fabiola Hospital and Tainted Money.

This is not a story of the Levite and the Good Sama itan, but it is one relating to the Oakland clergy and Labio'a Hospital. The connection may appear a trifle liserre to the outsider, but it is perfectly plain to the initiated, according to the way the story comes

- Eglanda Hospital, which does a large charity work in eating for the impoverished sick, is in financial strain. It owes $10,000 and the lady managers are unable to see where the money is to come from.

It happens that this debt of $10,000 is just about the sum the hospital lost by not getting the annual denation by the California Jockey Club of a day's receipts at the Oakland track. This annual donation appreximated $5000, Pabiola Day being one of the star events of the season, when some big races were pulled off.

Well, the preachers raised a row about the hospitol talling tainted money. They declared it was a pubhe diagrace for the lady managers to minister to the poor and friendless sick with funds donated by gamblers and horse racers. They made such an outcry that the lady managers yielded to their demands and did not get anything more from the California Jockey Club. A hole in the hospital's finances is the result. They recalled some of the writings of the fine old : The clergy knocked out Fabiola Day, but they didn't ager: are praying for Fabiola Day again.

" 'ain is a very real thing," says Mrs. Remi Chabot, presi lent of the board, "and it is not relieved by pious professions and benevolent intentions which never amount to anything more than words." She frankly says the work of the hospital is crippled for lack of fund, and this lack is due to throwing back to Tom Will ams the thousands of dollars he gave every year.

"One thing has forcibly struck us," she cried. "We have found the good church people give very little to charity. It takes all their surplus cash to support the church. There are so many churches, all struggling to live, all making a bitter fight for existence. It is not surprising then that the supporters of the churches have little to give to worthy charities-except, of course, in words. So the problem seems to have come to this: that the churches and the clergy have cut off a luc ative source of the funds for the maintenance of Fabicla, without substituting any better source—any source at all, in fact."

It seems to me there is something in all this suggesti e of the moral conveyed by Christ's parable of the traveler who fell among thieves, the Levite and the Cood Samaritan.

When Memphis was ravaged by yellow fever, all business being suspended and the city a charnelhouse, a woman who kept a noted bagnio turned her house into a hospital. She filled it with fever patients, and the inmates nursed them back to health or closed their eyes in death. This woman provided medicines, delicacies and other needs from her own purse. Her house, once the resort of shame and profligacy, became a house of mercy and self-sacrifice. When that wom: n died the whole city turned out in mourning. Nobe ly said tainted money when she was earing for the sick-nobody alluded to her past when she passed to a judgment wiser and more merciful than man's.

Problem Confronts Party Leaders.

The recurring talk of a conference of Republicans from different parts of the State, relative to a State ticket, is on tap once more. The proposition has taken on several forms at various times. At first it was proposed that the State Central Committee call a convention, but this met with no hearty response, as it was thought such a course would be in anticipation of the will of the electors as expressed in the primtry law. Next a conference of 1000 leading Republicans from different sections of the State was suggested. This plan included the calling of these Republicans together through the county committees. The langer of friction and dissensions occuring in such an assembly, in view of the multiplicity of candidates for the several State offices, was apparent and this plan has not yet received the full indorsement of party leaders.

That the great majority of Republicans in Californic are true to the principles and traditions of their party and also firm believers in the efficacy and even neces ity of party organization to insure success is concelled by even the opponents of a conference. To the legal Republicans an official indorsement of a candidate or a ticket would mean their acceptance of a ticket or candidate so recommended. How to give this indersement without infringing upon the rights of the electors as prescribed by the primary law is a problem the party leaders are now trying to solve.

Johnson Wants Tail to His Kite.

That an attempt is being made to effect an allian e between the rebellious Republicans, calling themselves the Lincoln-Roosevelt League, and the disgriphied Democrats is made apparent in the caneass of Hiram W. Johnson for a nomination for the head of the State ticket. At various points on his route of rancous rhetoric, the Lincoln-Roosevelt League standard bearer is reported to have held private conferences with insurgent Democrats with the object of making them the tail of his low-flying

These overtures to Democrats, which the latter consider opens a vista of jobs to be awarded to them. for their assistance should Johnson, perchance, be elected, has excited comment the reverse of that desired by Johnson. The integrity of his candidacy is being questioned and he has devoted much time of late to labored efforts to explain that he is running as a Rejublican while attacking the organization of that party. The Lincoln-Roosevelt League movement in this campaign is regarded as a conspiracy entered into with equally disgruntled. Democrats to disrupt the Republican party in this State that the conspirators may gain patronage of place. Hence Johnson's frequent attempts to explain his anomalous position of posing as a Republican while endeavoring to darrage that political organization by a misalliance with Democratic malcontents.

That Johnson sometimes secures an appreciable attenda ice at meetings in many places he visits is due to the courtesy and sympathy of the Republicans and Democrats of the regular organizations, who turn out as a r atter of pride in their local reputation for hospitality, not desiring that a political stranger in their midst be ignored. Curiosity and desire for entertainment, even by the opposition, also play their parts.

Lawlor's Long-Cherished Ambition.

Superior Judge William P. Lawlor, who has been more or less conspicuous in the trial of some of the so-called graft cases, has "given his permission" to the San Francisco Democratic Club, a side machine of the Democratic organization, to use his name as a candidate for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. Acting under this authorization the insurgent Bourbons will circulate a nominating petition for Lawlor. The judge has long cherished an ambition for political advancement on judicial lines.

Both Lawlor and Superior Judge Frank Dunne are credited with nursing a considerable resentment at the promotion of Frank II. Kerrigan to the Court of Appeal some years ago. The three were members of the Superior Bench and both Dunne and Lawlor are said to have entertained the belief that they would have much more effectively adorned the higher bench than Kerrigan, and a resentment, approximating a grouch, is believed to have been theirs since Kerrigan's election.

Lawlor was understood to have encouraged within himself a laudable aspiration to an appointment to the Federal bencf, at such time as an appointment of a Democrat was in order. But the outlook for the consummation of this ambition not being of the brightest, the judge apparently is going to keep in practice by running for the State supreme bench.

If the Spotlight Is Turned On.

Should the resolution reported by the judiciary committee of the United Stracs Senate, and which provides for an it vestigation of the methods adopted by William J. Burns and other government and private spics, known as the "third degree," be adopted by the Senate, there will undoubtedly be opened up in California a most amazing field of evidence, showing the espionage adopted by the Government Secret Service and other detective bureaus and running even to the intimidation of jurors and witnesses.

Word comes from Washington that not only will the Burns practices in what are popularly known as the graft cases be investigated, but the Benson-Perrin land fraud cases, a witness in which, Charles P. Snell, was given government employment after furnishing evidence for which he was afterward charged with perjury, will be a subject of inquiry.

It is also said that the attention of authorities in Washington, D. C., has been called to the case of Walter X. Dimnick, cashier of the United States branch mint in this city under Superintendent Leach, and in which proceeding Burns was active in securing evidence and espionage of the jury. Dimmick served a term of imprisonment, is now a free man and it is said that he could unfold a tale that would furnish most stimulating food for a Senate investigating com-

The "thumping" of a juror by a Burns employe and the snuggling of the thumper out of the city when the judge demanded his production in court, is one of the least interesting incidents of that trial.

The Story of a Baron and a Dog.

The announcement made last week that Baron von Schroeder has come into a very large fortune by the almost simultaneous deaths of his uncle, Baron Henry ven Schroeder, in London, and his aunt, the widow of Baron Arthur von Schroeder, in Hamburg, has caused the older citizens to become reminiscent and some of the stories they tell of the baron and his ancestors are of interest at this time. Baron von Schroeder is best known to many San Franciscans as the husband of Mamie Donahue, daughter of the late Peter Donahue, iron founder, railroad builder and multi-millionaire. The wedding was the great local social event of its time.

The then young baron was not popular with the Peter Donahue entourage, being regarded by them as an heiress hunter with nothing but an empty title to give in exchange. Whatever the baron's financial status may have been at the time of his marriage, he has now come into a fortune, according to report, that is far, in excess of the Donahue millions, which were so much diminished under the baron's administration.

The grandfather of the present baron made a considerable fortune in pickled herring, the flavor of his brand of pickel being such as to attract the favorable attention of the Imperor of Germany. When the baron gave largely of his fortune to the founding of schools and other educational institutions the Emperor made him a baron in token of his generosity. It was to this title that the present baron succeeded.

The Donahue Tome was on Rincon Hill, the then fashionable quarter of San Francisco. When the baron drove forth daily he was followed by a spotted coach dog, which habit excited the resentment of some of Peter Donahue's neighbors, among whom was a blacksmith. Now this forger with bellows and hammer owned a bull dog which would sally forth and make trouble for the baron's Delmatian as the latter passed in the train of the German nobleman. This was more than annoying to Von Schroeder, who retained in his system some of the spicy pickles that had made his grandfather commercially famous.

One day there was a reversal of results in the combat between the spotted dog under the baron's carriage and the blacksnith's bull pup, the latter scuttling back to the short much the worse for wear. It appeared that the baron had gone into consultation with Con Mooney, the then leading fighting dog man of this city, and had because a bull dog warranted to lick anything of its size and weight in the State. This canine warrior had been carefully stenciled with black spots to resemble the baron's coach dog, and thus disguised served as the customary challenge to the blacksmith's deluded pup.

This piece of strategy on the part of the baron immediately caused his caste to be recognized by the neighbors' children, and even the laborers in his father-in-law's gas-house on Tar Flat classed him as at least a field narshal.

Call Is Not Ringing for Bell.

Word comes up from the southern part of the State that nominating petitions in behalf of Joseph H. Call, the lawyer of Lo. Angeles, for the office of Governor are being circulated. Call was much talked of for the Democratic nomination for Railroad Commissioner in the southern district, but he declined to run. The circulating of a petition in his behalf for Governor would indicate that he has finally concluded to enter that contest, which he has had under advisement for some time.

The entry of Call into this fight will tend to somewhat demoralize the corspiracy entered into by the rebellious Republicans ai d the disgruntled Democrats to pool their issues in an effort to defeat the regular Republican party in this State, and, if successful, to divide the spoils of office. This collusive contract will now be difficult to fell in all its specifications. It involved the running of Theodore A. Bell as a Democratic candidate withour an opponent within that party, and by reason of a lack of opposition, many Bell Democrats were to register as Republicans and vote for Johnson, their ballots not being required to nominate the urapposed Bell at the primary. The Bellites' reward for this double-dealing was a promise that the Lincoln-Roosevelt Leaguers would support Bell in the general elect on should Johnson fail to defeat the regular Republican candidate at the primary.

But now the Bellites will be kept busy in an effort to make a showing for their candidate, and the opinion prevails that they will be unable to spare any Democrats to barter to he Lincoln-Roosevelt League for Johnson.

The indications are that Call will defeat Bell at the primary. The former Congressman from Napa went to the Democratic conference at Los Angeles with about one-third of that body friendly to him and his nomination. His course at the meeting alienated the third that were disposed to support him and the Democrats in the State are largely inclined to favor any fair man who may oppose Bell at the primary polls. That Bell will have hard sledding in his future canvass is appaient.

George Knight Is Good Friend.

The confirmation of the reappointment of United States District Attorney Robert T. Devlin by the Senate has released a story of how George A. Enight, California's robust ora or and representative in the Republican National Committee, contributed to Devlin's success.

Probably the most active and aggressive of Devlin's of ponents was Senator Borah of Idaho, who was seemingly implacible. Borah had experienced troubles of his own, in which a grand jury played a part, and his sympathies went out to Dr. E. B. Perrin, the timier land man who Devlin prosecuted and who was the mail source of the opposition to Devlin's confirmation. Borah married a beautiful young woman from hundholdt county, which is George Knight's home and special reservation. Kright was the personal friend of Mrs. Borah's father, a successful butcher of Euroka, and had known the Senator's wife as a little girl and as she advanced to womanhood,

When Borah was it trouble Knight, by reason of his Humboldt association and friendship for Mrs. Borah and her father, elegraphed to the Idaho Senator that he was his to command to do all in his power to assist him it his difficulties, event to going east to defend him. That the tender of aid, although not accepted, was fully appreciated by Borah was shown by subsequent acts of his.

When Devim's confirmation was opposed by the Senate judiciar; committee, of which Borah is a member, Knight telegraphed the Idaho Senator urging the latter to go to the aid of Devim. This wire is said to have been as strong as such communication could be. Its effect was to change the attitude of Senator Borah and to overcome the weight of the great influences that had been brought to bear upon the Senator in opposit on to Devlin.

The outcome was a favorable report from the judiciary committee and the confirmation of Devlin's appointment. It is needless to say that Devlin regards George Knight as a pretty good kind of a fact that there are eight of these amateur wireless stafriend to have.

I fact that there are eight of these amateur wireless stafriend to have.

Using Useless Words.

One of the most prominent officials of the largest corporation here makes an attack on the modern method of correspondence with stenographer and typewriter. His objection lies not with the man or wom in shorthand writer and typewriter. Rather, it is with the system.

"I I had my way," said he to me, "I would compel all the officials of this company to write out their own official correspondence where it concerned important matters. Then, you may be sure, it would be brief and to the point. Rottine correspondence could be conducted as is now usual."

At r.—— was very emphatic in asserting that 90 per cent of the words used at present by 99 per cent of the officials of his company were useless. There would be no extravagant waste of words if each official had to sit down and write his own important letters. At present it is so easy, he says, to dictate long letters. The official doing so wasted much of his own time. The man who had to read them consumed much valuable time in perusing them in an effect to find the important point. This was often to be found in the middle of a long letter or near its end. This waste of time by sender and receiver, with the resultant waste of letter supplies and the time of a lot of employes, meant, in his opinion, much money in the course of a year.

"If I could make all the officials write their own important correspondence I would guarantee to add each year a considerable sum to the net profits of the company," he continued. "Foday I've wasted much time reading long letters when the matter dealt with could have been better told with 10 per cent of the words actually used. What is true of this company is true of all large corporations of the country, I dare say. A revolt against the abuse of the modern system of correspondence impends. There was an objection to the size of the company's telegraph bills not long ago. I told the objector how to cut them down two-thinds."

'How?" he demanded.

'I told him to make all officia's write out their telegrams instead of dictating them and he would see a big difference in the telegrap's tolls the first month."

One on Lucien Young.

A well known eastern newspaper friend of Lucien Yeting, U. S. N., who was recently transferred from Mare Island to Pensacola, Florida, and raised from caprain to rear admiral, has seen fit to compose some jugling verse about the bopular navai officer and print and send to many of his friends copies of it. Allusi in is made in the verse to Young's historic attack on and capture of the Cuban port of Manzanillo during the Spanish-American war. Young had three government tugs as converted gunboats. The one he used as his flagship, as it were, was called the Hist. He cap used nine Spanish gunboats and took possession of the harbor. Here are some of the verses:

"I've sailed the wide seas over,
Been in many a foreign land;
The Tartar's yell and the Hindoo's howling
I've managed to understand.
And in many tongues this question,
Wi h his praises has been sung;
"So you know an American over there by the name of Lucien Young?"

"Wha-at? Lucien Young of the navy? Wh-o? Captain Young of the Hist? Why, we point with pride on the other side To Lucien Young, who rales the tide. (Be the tide of wine as the deep seas' brine) To Lucien Young of the navy.

"It Yokohama one fine eve I was feeling rather tacky And I made some sign to Geisha girl To join me in some saki.

Shi toddled over to my side, and this query on me sprung:
'You savee Melican man, allee samee

W-h-a-t? Lucien Young of the navy? W-h-h-o? Captain Young of the Hist? If you'll only take the trouble to look, You'll find his name in the soelling book, And I clinked the glass of the stant-cyed lass To Lucien Young of the navy.

By name of Lucy Young?'

"In Chili, Spain, Alaska, in Java and Samar, In Honolulu, Hudson bay, Port Said and Zanzibar; In every sort of gibberish I've heard this question

Do you know a man in your countree By the name of Lucien Young?

"What? Lucien Young of the navy? Who? Captain Young of the Hist?. Onlyes. He'll put you up for the night And he'll put you under the table all right, So here's to his health, long life and wealth: To Lucien Young of the navy."

Wireless to Be Regulated.

That the Federal government will soon have to adopt legislation affecting the use of the space regions above us owing to the rapid strides aviation and wireless telegraphy are making as factors in every-day life admits of no doubt.

Naval officers on this coast and the private owners of wireless telegraph stations in this city are joining similar parties in other parts of the country in urging the present Congress to pass some legislation of this character. The navy people and private owners complain bitterly how their wireless messages are being interfered with by the wireless outfits boys have fitted up for themselves in all the cities about the bay. A recent investigation by these people has developed the tions in Berkeley, five in Oakland, three in Alameda, ten it San Francisco, one in San Rafael and one in San osc. Repeatedly in seeking communication with vesse's at sea the naval establishments at Vallejo and on G at island and the private commercial one in this city are thiwarted for several hours at time by getting messages being sent among the boys' outlits. The other day the establishment here in seeking to communicate with the Japanese liner, which was nearing this port with Prince Tsai Tao of China on board, found its wireless line blocked for an hour or two, so to speak, on account of a lot of messages sweeping through the air between the vouthful operators. "Helo, Dick: be sure and be at the ball game tomorrow, was one of the interioring messages which flash d from Berkeley to San Francisco. Others of a similar nature passed between other points and the commercial station had to wait an opportune time wher the air was not so "busy." That the hoy stations catel confidential messages from the regular stations at times is a certainty. These are among the reasons why it is said, Congress must soon enter this new field of legislation.

The Prince's Visit.

Speaking to the difficulty of getting a wireless to Prince Tsai Tao reminds me of several things about him which the local press overlooked. Private Secretary Kwai, who came here from Washington with Min ster Chang Yeng Tang to greet the prince, says the after has on his estate in China a lot of trained parries which can shoot arrows into the air and turn som resaults in giddy succession. They are also trained to five several rounds from a minature brass cannon, ram ting down the charge, tipping the priming into the outh hole and applying the match. With each loud report the birds stand by and nod their heads with evident satisfaction. The prince is carrying presents to the government at Washington, which is an unfailing custom with Chinese dignituries who call on the President. They are said to consist of vases of celedon ware, and peachblow porcelain. Sim lar, as well as other, presents have been given in the past and they now rest in the National Museum. This recalls one of the curious gifts of the Chir ese to this government. It is a jade "ceremonial This ring is big enough to be grasped, with both hands and has to be held before the breast in plair sight when the holder is given an audience with the Thinese ruler. The main object of this ring in Chira is said to be to keep the petitioner's hands in viev. If he lets go of the ring and makes, in the parlance of a frontier town, any awkward move, those who are attendant on the Emperor politely but swiftly decepitate him. It is not known whether the Chinese gov rament thought the ring would be put to a like use in Washington, but it still remains there as a museum cariosity. Prince Tsai Tai did not want any cere nonies while in San Francisco and the Washington authorities let that fact be known here in advance if I is arrival. There were receptions arranged for him nevertheless, and he and his advisors lacked the tact to make the best of the situation during his brief stay. This is why an awkward sittle on and some feel ng was caused.

Fortunate Princess.

telatives of the Princess Hatzfeldt in this city are quictly telling their friends that the princess, who is werlthy in her own right and possesses a beautiful Lui don home, has been very fortunate of late in her stock speculations in United States Steel common and in the shares of the Union and Southern Pacific roads. The princess was born a Frentice of Sacramento and she has a brother and sister living in San Francisco. The latter is Mrs. Mary Huntington, who divorced He ry E. Huntington before the fire. Princess Eatzfelct, by the way, was never the adopted daughter of the late Collis P. Huntington, as is generally supposed. She was his niece and was raised and educated by him. She also took his name and on her marriage to the Ge man prince was given by him a dot of $2,500,000. fac that she was never legally adopted by the magnate was the fatal defect in her position when she sought to attack his will. Joseph D. Redding was her att rnev at that time. No actual suit was begun. She was given something by way of a compromise by the two heirs, who were the widow and Henry E. Huntington. That she was given six millions in the compremise, as many thought at the time, is not true. The amount was much smaller. The princess is a wo nan cf rare charm and refinement and of all the An crican women who have married into the European no ility she is said to have a fair share of domestic haj piness and social recognition.

To Entertain Hadley.

President Arthur Hadley, who is to deliver an ad ress at the University of California this month, has many warm friends on the coast who want to entertail him while out here. Hadley's ability is unquestic red both as a scholar and the executive head of a great seat of learning. Unlike some university preside us, he likes to be considered a good "mixer" with the students and he has the nack of playing that role ve'v successfully. In that respect he excels President Benjarun Ide Wheeler of Berkeley and far outruns Jo dan of Stanford. That he should suffer in sterling dis nity for such conduct, as some staid critics have it, is no doubt untrue. Anyhow, he is a breaker of precedent at Yale in that respect, as he has been in of er ways. He is probably the first president of Yale who is not a clergyman and jarred some people by re ding his inaugural in English instead of sticking to the traditional Latin. A couple of gentlemen here who know him intimately tell me President Hadley was formerly a newspaper man and has frequently re narked how often he found that training valuable to him in his subsequent career. They say he is one of the lew men who can do two things well at the same time. He is said to be able to dictate letters and at the same time carry on a conversation with another person in the room. His writings on sociology and er comic problems show him to be up to date.

Gebhardt's Visit Here.

News of the serious illness of Fred Gebhard in New Y mk recalls to some old time members of the Bohemian Club the time he was in San Francisco following in the wake of Lily Langtry. This was during 1805, when the Jersey Lily bought a ranch in Lake county and had General W. H. L. Barnes bring a suit for divorce for her in the San Francisco courts against her husband. Gel-hard in those days was a good-looking fellow, a royal spender and ever ready for a lark. He was in the exterie of Bohemians who, fate one night, sallied forth from their citadel of art and goodfellowship and destroyed from what they considered the good name of art the several water fountain statutes of himsel' which Dr. Cogswell had been given permission by the city fathers to erect at several places along Market street. Cogswell was about the only man in town who was outraged by this vandal work. The rest of the community seemed to be satisfied with the wreckage of what had come to be eyesores. Dr. Cogs vell was led to other avenue of activity after that to satisfy a craving egotism. He gave $15,000 to an English authority to prepare a book of genealogy of the Cogswells, and one of his ancestors mentioned in that finely-bound volume was Richard, the Lien-Hearted. The Polytechnic High School in this city is a more commendable memorial to his name.

Tells of Mark Twain.

The death of Mark Twain enables the writer to tell an interesting fact in connection with the famous man of letters and humorist. Albert Bigelow Paine, his secretary and friend for many years, has quictly and confidentially been gathering for five years past every scrap of it formation about Mark Twain's early days on this coast from persons who knew and had met him. In his letters to the latter people he expressed the wish that whatever they saw fit to write him they would keep confidential, as he intended to use their information some day in a biography. One of the men he corresponded with out here was E. Black Ryan, who was for years the private secretary of Senator Leland Stanford and later on the railroad's tax attorney. When Ryan lived in Sacramento, Mark Twain lived at h s home for some time. Mr. and Mrs. Ryan became warm friends of the humorist and were enabled on that account to tell Mr. Paine many things of interest about his idiosyncrasies and give some unpublished correspondence with him after he left California. It as pears he wrote the Ryans a number of letters from different parts of the world, in which were mingled pethos and fun and an unending flow of anecdete and queer experience. Mr. Bigelow was allowed to have copies of these letters which the Ryans cherish very much. No doubt, some of this correspondence will appear in the biography of Mark Twain which Prine is to write.

Letter to Make You Laugh.

It would not do to mention names, but a heal architect says he received the other day the following letter from a snall decorating concern with a highly ornate letterhead:

"In remember the way we understood in talking with you about tree weeks a go about them two buildings on 9 avenue; to be painting and decorating; you promise me call you about four weeks later I believe that his about time know To remember You. Whenever are You ready to do it if You please let meknow when and where do You want to see me then I will bring some sketches and designes with me if You wish. We would be glad deal with You and we are sure that You will have full satisfactory for all; as the work done first classwork and honest price,

"Hoping hear from You on Your inconvenience we remain"—etc.

The firm got the job, for its work is better than its letter writing.

Oldest Person in San Francisco 105.

Superintendent of the Census G. B. Baldwin has found the oldest person in San Francisco to be a woman. She lives in the mission district and is 105 years of age. The youngest person is a baby boy, who is thirty minutes old, according to the census returns, having been born at 11:30 p. m. on Friday April 15th, census day. Had the birth taken place after midnight the baby could not have been included in the 1910 cersus of the city. Some funny experiences and pathetic ones have marked the work of some of the enumera ors.

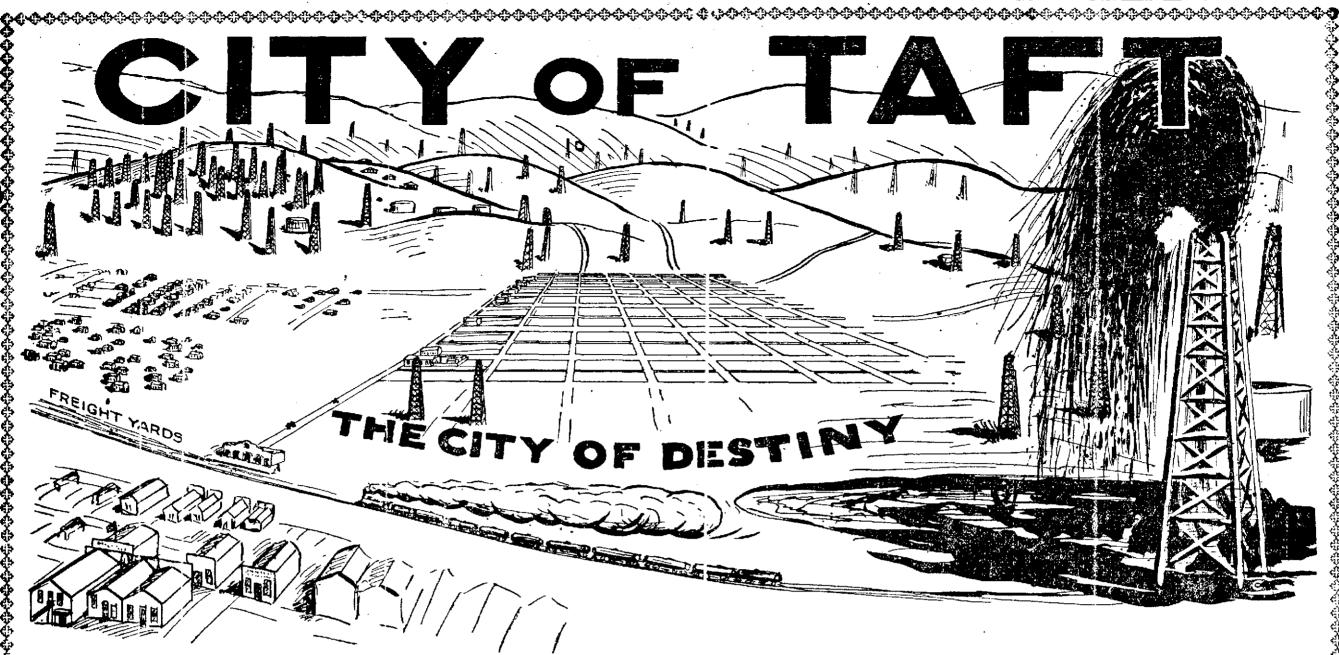

"I 'spose de nex' thing you'll ax me is what's my d'nomination an' what I keeps my money."

This was the peppery response one of Baldwin's enumerators received the other day from an old colored woman who has been living in the South San Francisco district for the past sixteen years. The enumerator was reading off to her the list of questions from one of the census blanks.

"Well, hone, I mought as well tell yer my d'nomination is dat ob a Abraham Lincoln 'Publican au' my faith is dat ob a genuine of Baptist. Yer needn't ask me 'bout my money, cuz I ain't gwine tet tell yer how much I'se got or whar I keeps it. Dar now."

Huntington Not a Citizen Here.

The statement in the local papers that Henry 11. Huntington is a citizen of the town of Onconta, N. Y., and not of Cali ornia, is nothing new and is not something Hunting on has ever tried to conceal. He was form in that town, and, like his uncie, Collis P. Huntingten, who was also born there, has aiways maintained his citizenship in the place as a matter of sentiment. His action in so doing has never been for the purpose of avoiding his proper duty as a taxpayer in Los Angeles city and county nor in New York City and Newport News, Va., where he also has large property interests. He is one of the largest taxpayers in California and during the past twenty-two years has invested millions of dollars in Southern California because he likes the country and has implicit faith in its future. Like his uncle, H. E. Huntington has never been ambitious in a political sense, finding his ambition in the fields of finance and railroad building and ownership. Outside of business, he likes to please his friends an ladevote time to books and pictures. Although not lacking the opportunity and means for having a social career, his quie tastes have always made the role of a society man distasteful to him. Huntington owns no property in San Francisco and Chicago, as is generally believed. THE KNAVE.

Usually communities like the City of Taft spring up in aphazord manner and are made up almost entirely of class. We have provided for this in advance by limiting building construction.

The City of Toft is in the center of the largest and most valuable oil fields in the world, and its nearness to the Pa ific Ocean, with many present and future pine lines, will make it one of the richest cities in the United States.

The erection of a large, modern hotel, to be equipped with all conveniences, is contemplated at once.

A substantial banking institution is soon to be crected. All the wells in this district have been drilled in the last year-and there are good for at least twenty years of continuous pumping.

The City of Taft itself is surrounded by the greatest "Gushers" in the world-flows freely here-and in its wake flows the money. The Lakeview Gusher flows at the rate of $25,000 a d. y.

To make monor, go where the money is poor men have been made rich in a night here.

Values in City of Taft real estate are rapidly increasing. Any lot you buy will be worth two or three times what you paid for before the end of the year—probably many times more.

The excitement at the City of Taft has just begun. The proven oil territory in this part of Culifornia is growing every day—the oil industry in this section is only in its infancy.

In the territory lying between Sunset, Maricopa and McKittrick there are about 1,500 oil derricks. There will soon be one hundred times as many. The City of Tate is in the beart of it all.

There is just one thing for you to do-inspect the property at once, or wire for a reservation and leave it to us to pick you out a good lot. State what husiness you wish to use the lot for. We ask this information, because the location of different lines of business in their proper districts will be one of the greatest features in creating future prosperity for yourself and for every other lot buyer.

HOW TO GET THERE

The Direct Primary and Its Friends.

By a narrow vote the Democratic State Convention in Indiana defeated Tom Taggart's demand for a State-wide primary to decide who should be the Democratic candidate for Senator. John W. Kern, who was Bryan's running mate on the Presidential ticket in 1908, was then nominated for Senator, Taggart casting his votes for him.

The defeat of Taggart is granifying from the standpoint of civic honor, but in other respects t calls for sober examination. The principle of the direct primary was overthrown to eliminate him as a Senatorial candidate. Apparently it was assumed that he would win the nomination if the matter were left to the Democratic voters individually. So the conven ion rejected the direct primary proposition and proceeded to make a nomination in specific violation of the letter and spirit of all direct primary laws. The leaders would not trust the voters to make their own selections, but named a slate ticket in the old familiar way.

That is precisely what the Lincoln-Roosevelt League has done in California-with this difference, that the slate ticket was nominated in closed sessions by an executive committee appointed by one man. The Indiana Democratic convertion did come together by authority of the party voters in the several counties of the State. The delegates were elected from their respective constituencies by the voice of the electorate, and went to the convention not only with a warrant of authority, but with a clear and definite idea of what they were expected to do.

In California the so-called Lincoln-Roosevelt League, or rather the executive committee appointed by Chester H. Rowell, nominated a complete ticket, from Senator down, without asking the consent of any body of voters. Yet they claim to be devoted champions of the direct primary principle. They lenounced the caucus and nominations by convention, and then proceeded to nominate by secret caucus. A platform was framed in the same way. All newspaper representatives save those in on the deal were excluded from the caucus meetings. Nobody outside was permitted to know what was said at these secret gatherings, how the committeemen voted or the reasons presented in behalf of the candidates proposed for nomina-

Chester H. Rowell, who appointed the members of this secretive body, presided over the meetings and apparently dictated a majority of the nominees. He has virtually taken it upon himself to name the Governor, the Senator, the Supreme Judges and other high officers of the State. He is a direct primary, a caucus, a convention and a boss all rolled into one. The three tailors of Tooley street styled themselves, "We, the people of England." Mr. Rowell has constituted himself the people of California. He has gone further and imitates Louis XIV, who said: "I am the State."

The bosses of the Indiana Denocracy (who had decided that party success depended upon dum; ing Tom Taggart) were afraid Massachusetts district, proves that to let the party voters express their choice for Senator. They feared there is to be a general smashing of The candidate who was elected, fest impetus to those measures of legthey would choose Taggart, and that would never do. He would not let the Republican Utica Press, masses have anything to say about the platform lest they might disagree with the Rowell ideas and the Rowell plans.

Lastly, Mr. Rowell deries the right of any person to seek Republican nominations other than those he has marked and branded then it is arguing with and presented to the public, holdly declaring it to be conspiracy woman, and this appears to be one against the people of the State and the public welfare for any other of these occasions; but, as the angroup of individuals to name candidates or assemble to confer cient philosopher remarked, this, too, about political nominations. If Sheriff Taylor actually made the statements attributed to him he displays a queer conception of his duty as a public officer. To offer a bribe to a public officer is to commit a felony. If Sheriff Taylor received such offers he was made personally cognizant by the approach that a crime had been committed. His sworn duty was to take the offenders into custody and have them prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

By failing to do this and shielding the criminals from punishment he became accessory after the fact. # BUDGET THEY

But Veto Is Still Powerful and the Peers Are Not Yet Beaten.

KEIR HARDIE THROW'S POWERFUL BOOMERANG

Threat That Democracy Will Rise, Certain to Pile Up Tory Votes.

(By WILLIAM T. STEAD.)

LONDON, April 30.—The Lords, with very wry faces, have guiped down the budget which they rejected in 1909. The Liberals are delighted and have gone away for the recess in high spirits, some are in such a tools paradise that they imagine that the Lords will accept the aboltion of their veto without putting the country to this inconvenience of another to the inconvenience of another try to the inconvenience of another election.

Why the Lords should capity late at the first summons is not at present very obvious. There is always time enough to surrender. If they go to the country and are betten again they will be no worse off the nacy would be if they climbed down now, and there is always the off charce that they night win, if Asquith could mustle the wild men of his owr party and of his labor allies the chance of victory for the Lords would be very small, but this he cannot do

PLAYS A TRUMP.

Already Kler Hardie, one of the most well-meaning, but infindictous of men, has thrust into the hands of Mr. Balfour a trimp card which may help him to win the game—Hardies speech, declaring that if the King refuses to make new peer, with which to crush the old ones, democracy will rise and crush both the crown and the peers. This is exactly the kind of thing that will win votes by the thousands for the Tories. If there are many more speeches like that, it is not the crown and peers who will be crushed; that it is will befall not only Kier Hardie, but the ministry with whom he is apparently in atliance, for the Tory wir crywould be that every vote given against the King, God bless him:

INTERVIEW SHORT.

INTERVIEW SHORT.

When Asquith called on the King on Thursday the interview lasted only half an hour and neither sovereign nor premier was likely to precipitate matters. The King can, on c-casion, hold his tongue. The premier's time for tendering advice has not yet come. The King never argues with his ministers; he asks questions and receives replies.

The King never argues with his margiters; he asks questions and receives repiles.

He certainly will not piedge himself in advance, whother or not he will accept the advice or resignation of his prime minister until dreamstances have arisen calling for such decision. The ministers have won the first round and are stronger now than they were when parliam it met. Asquith's emphatic tribute to Lloyd George has improved the popularity of both Asquith and Lloyd George. On the opposition side Ealfour smalls where he was; Austin Chamberlain has improved his position and so has Mr. Prettyman, Among the Irish. Devin has justified the confidence of those who see in him a future leader. Among the Labories no fresh reputations have been made.

AWART ORATION.

AWAIT ORATION.

Rooseveit's Nobel prize oration is awaited with great curiosity here. No matter what he may say to he pacificists of Norway, one thing is tolerably certain, he will not say what Andrew Carnegies said at the opening of the new building of Panamerica at Washington. Carnegie's remark, as reported to our papers, we in effect that Great Britain and Germany should be forced to submit their troubles to the tribunal so that the world's phace would not be disturbed by increased armaments. Has Mr Carnegie reflected for a mome it upon what the troubles are which he would refer to the tribunal.

There are absolutely no of tstanding disputes of any kind butween Germany and England; there is nothing for a tribural to adjudicate upon.

Oakland on the Eve of Great Changes in Values of Property

CHANGES ONWATER FRONT

Every Indication of Early Advances in Property.

The improvement of the water front is beginning to assume the shape of an important factor in the development of the western and southern sections of the city. The building of the municipal docks and wharves on the southern water front inside Oakland harbor is the first work undertaken and it is the section of Oakland's water front which can be put in shape for the uses of commerce, and by the largest ocean-going ships, most expedit- obtained from the frail chells deiously and at least cost.

RAILWAYS HELPING OAKLAND

Extensions and New Lines Bringing New Trade.

The extensions to the Key

Route and Oakland Traction Railway's suburban lines, the development of an interurban and inter-county electric railway system by the Southern Pacific Company, and the operation of a motor service between Oakland and Richmond by the Santa Fe Railroad Company are all combining to influence beneficially the real estate interests and the mercantile business in Oakland. Since the interurban cars of the Oakland Traction Company have been in operation BASEMENT PTS

Company have been in operation between the central retail district of Oakland and Richmond it has had a noticeable effect on trading of all kinds in Oakland. These cars are doing a large transportation business, being full of passengers both ways. The new system which the Southern Pacific Compnay is busily developsystem which the Southern Pa-cific Compnay is busily develop-ing through Berkeley and into Contra Costa county, which will be ultimately linked with and then for the number of large rew blocks that are in course of construction in the much business quarter of the city is in course of development in proving a productive source for uniterial Oakland and Alameda, and which will eventually extend through the body of the county to San Jose, all centering in the business heart of Oakland, will naturally advance the business and realty interests of this city by attracting an outside trading population and inducing settlement here. The opening up of the foothill territory for residence purposes and the extension of local lines to the new subdivisions is already becoming a great and influential factor in Oakland's expansion and growth of population.

Oakland Profits

naterially from what at first sight are counted as disasters. $6000 Residence to Be Built An instance of that kind occurred during the past week through the destruction by fire of approximately $100,000 of property on lower Webster street. The sober second thought must carry, however, the conviction that the conflagration wasa genuine blessing in disguise. The clearing of the land of the gingerbread structures hurriedly erected thereon for the housing of the Chinese refugees who sought shelter in Oakland after the destruction of San Francisco's Chinatown, opens the way for the evolution of the district into its proper sphere and the erection of stable permanent improvements adapted to manufacturing, warehousing and wholesale establishments of immensely greater importance to the general welfare of the city than anything which previously occupied the ground. The flimsy shacks and slightly constructed three-story buildings which had been abandened largely by the tenants for whom they had been erected during the past four years, had become a positive, drawback to the proper development of the section of the city in which they were located. Their destruction, which was complete, makes it possible now to erect buildings on the land for the permanent location of important businesses and industries of the greatest value to the community, for the section in which the big fire of Thursday is peculiarly adapted to wholesaling, warehousing and manufacturing, because of its proximity to all lines of land transportation and to the developed commercial, water front
